Objective and Investment Policy

Objective

The objective of The European Investment Trust plc is to achieve long-term capital growth through a diversified portfolio of Continental European securities.

Investment Policy

The Board believes that investment in the diverse and increasingly accessible markets of this region provides opportunities for capital growth over the long term. At the same time it considers the structure of the Company as a UK listed investment trust, with a fixed capital and an independent Board of Directors, to be well suited to investors seeking longer-term returns.

The Board recognises that investment in some European countries can be riskier than in others. Investment risks are diversified through holding a wide range of securities in different countries and industrial sectors. No more than 10% of the value of the portfolio in aggregate may be held in securities in those countries which are not included in the FTSE All-World European indices.

The Board has the authority to hedge the Company's exposure to movements in the rate of exchange of currencies, principally the Euro, in which the Company's investments are denominated, against sterling, its reporting currency. However, it is not generally the Board's practice to do this and the portfolio is not currently hedged.

No investments in unquoted stocks can be made without the prior approval of the Board. The level of gearing within the portfolio is agreed by the Board and should not exceed 20% in normal market conditions.

No more than 10% of the total assets of the Company may be invested in other listed investment companies (including investment trusts) except in such other investment companies which themselves have stated that they will invest no more than 15% of their total assets in other listed investment companies, in which case the limit is 15%.

The Investment Manager's compliance with the limits set out in the investment policy is monitored by the Board.

Investment Manager's Review

Results

The net asset value per share ("NAV") at 31 March 2013, the Company's half-year end, was 683.83p, an increase of 12.1% on the NAV at 30 September 2012 of 610.24p. After including the special and final dividends totalling 16.0p per share which were paid in January 2013, the total return per share was 14.8% for the six month period. The total return from the FTSE All-World Europe ex UK Index in sterling was 18.4%.

Share price and discount

During the six months to 31 March 2013, the Company's share price increased by 15.7% from 508p to 588p, whilst the share price discount to NAV narrowed from 16.8% to 14.0%.

Revenue

The net revenue return per share in the period was 3.39p, an increase on the net revenue return per share of 1.03p in the six months to 31 March 2012. This was partly due to a substantial rise in dividend income, with a number of portfolio companies raising their dividends; however, the principal reason for the increase was a special dividend payment received from Ryanair, one of the Company's largest investments. In the year to 30 September 2012, the net revenue return per share was 15.38p. Shareholders should be aware that the revenue return for the half-year is not indicative of the full year return, as many European companies pay their dividends between April and September while the expenses of running the Company are incurred on a more even basis throughout the financial year.

Economic and market overview

Since the global financial crisis in 2008, investment sentiment has been dominated by fear, with a focus almost exclusively on risk. Accordingly, there has been a flight by investors to any kind of investment where there appear to be the fewest unknowns. This is most obvious in the unprecedented bond bull market, which has been boosted by quantitative easing; however, we have also seen a similar impact in equity markets.

Your portfolio has held a number of companies with more predictable profit streams. However, over the last 12 to 18 months we have gradually reduced this exposure. Examples of disposals of this kind include Unilever, Syngenta, Pernod-Ricard, Amadeus and Sanofi.

We have reduced this exposure for two related reasons. Firstly, the valuation gap between companies with safe and predictable earnings and companies with more volatile earnings has expanded to extreme levels. Secondly, although some countries throughout the world are struggling to repair their fiscal indebtedness after the crisis, the global economy as a whole is displaying a fair degree of resilience. When signs of renewed stability in the global economy are appreciated, we anticipate that this will be met with a significant change in investor perception. From a European perspective, we believe that, whilst progress has not been, nor will be, in a straight line, Europe is moving in the right direction and the possibility of a financial crisis has reduced.

Your portfolio has been building positions in out-of-favour areas such as telecoms, financials and the peripheral economies of Europe where valuations in many cases are at extremely low levels, even allowing for the greater volatility in corporate earnings.

Whilst it is pleasing to report a 14.8% increase in the NAV total return in the six months to 31 March 2013, it is nevertheless disappointing that we lag the index, which returned 18.4% during the period. Timing a move away from the mainstream consensus is never easy and it is clear that so far we have been too early in making our portfolio moves. Taking a contrary view is something many investors find difficult; however, having made this move, we believe that we have both valuation and investment history on our side.

Outlook

Equity markets have risen over the period under review and valuations can no longer be described as cheap. However, we continue to believe that the long-term outlook for European equity markets remains positive, particularly when compared to what we consider to be overvalued bond markets given the possibility of the longer-term risk of inflation. As a consequence, we believe a fully invested but ungeared portfolio is appropriate.
