Objective and Investment Policy

Objective

The objective of The European Investment Trust plc is to achieve long-term capital growth through a diversified portfolio of Continental European securities.

Investment Policy

The Board believes that investment in the diverse and increasingly accessible markets of this region provides opportunities for capital growth over the long term. At the same time it considers the structure of the Company as a UK listed investment trust, with fixed capital and an independent Board of Directors, to be well-suited to investors seeking longer-term returns.

The Board recognises that investment in some European countries can be riskier than in others. Investment risks are diversified through holding a wide range of securities in different countries and industrial sectors. No more than 10% of the value of the portfolio in aggregate may be held in securities in those countries which are not included in the FTSE All-World European indices.

The Board has the authority to hedge the Company's exposure to movements in the rate of exchange of currencies, principally the euro, in which the Company's investments are denominated, against sterling, its reporting currency. However, it is not generally the Board's practice to do this and the portfolio is not currently hedged.

No investments in unquoted stocks can be made without the prior approval of the Board. The level of gearing within the portfolio is agreed by the Board and should not exceed 20% in normal market conditions.

No more than 10% of the total assets of the Company may be invested in other listed investment companies (including investment trusts) except in such other investment companies which themselves have stated that they will invest no more than 15% of their total assets in other listed investment companies, in which case the limit is 15%.

The Investment Manager's compliance with the limits set out in the investment policy is monitored by the Board.

Investment Manager's Review

Results

The NAV at 31 March 2014, the Company's half-year end, was 856.40p, an increase of 11.5% on the NAV at 30 September 2013 of 768.31p. After including the special and final dividends totalling 18.0p per share which were paid in January 2014, the NAV total return for the six-month period was 13.9%. This was an outperformance when compared to the total return from the FTSE All-World Europe ex UK Index in sterling of 7.7%.

Share price and discount

During the six months to 31 March 2014, the Company's share price increased by 12.9% from 684.50p to 773.00p. The share price total return was 15.7%. The share price discount to NAV narrowed from 10.9% to 9.7%.

Revenue

The net revenue return per share in the six-month period to 31 March 2014 was 3.23p, a small reduction on the net revenue return per share of 3.39p received in the six months to 31 March 2013.

In the year to 30 September 2013, the net revenue return per share was 18.02p. Shareholders should be aware that the revenue return for the half year is not indicative of the full-year return, as many European companies pay their dividends between April and September while the expenses of running the Company are incurred on a more even basis throughout the financial year.

Economic and market overview

The key reason for the strength in European equity markets in the period under review was the improvement in prospects for many European economies. These better prospects are shared, albeit unevenly, across the majority of European countries. It does appear that the harsh medicine taken by many countries in Europe has helped unwind some, if not all, of the structural imbalances which had built up in previous years. Whilst this by no means leaves a flawless construct of a political and economic area, it does herald what should now be a period of relative stability during which moderate economic growth can be delivered and corporate earnings can recover and grow.

At the start of the period under review the risk of investing in European equities was considered to be much less marked when compared to recent years. However this risk has increased following the Russian policy towards Crimea and the subsequent civil unrest in Eastern Ukraine. Whilst rational observation would suggest a de-escalation of events, based on the mutual economic dependence of Russia and Europe, acts of aggression are rarely rational so additional caution is necessary. Notwithstanding this, unless there is a significant worsening of the crisis, the economic and therefore stock market and portfolio impacts should be minimal.

For some time the portfolio has been positioned to take advantage of an eventual normalisation of economic growth in Europe. The period under review has seen some rotation in the portfolio as the valuation gaps on some of the most undervalued stocks in the portfolio, which had persisted for some time, closed entirely.

This was most notable in the significant positions we had built up in peripheral countries. In the past six months, the following companies were sold from the portfolio: Azimut (Italian asset manager), Mediaset España (Spanish advertiser) and Banco Espirito Santo (Portuguese bank). All these companies were initially purchased as they were considered to be clear beneficiaries of a recovery in domestic economic conditions. Their share prices recovered well ahead of the actual recovery in profits and, as we considered they were fully valued, we took the opportunity to dispose of these holdings.

The additions to the portfolio to replace the above investments were also companies based in peripheral countries, although the profits of these companies are much less domestically derived. These included Portugal Telecom (the most significant proportion of their profits come from Brazil), Jeronimo Martins (a discount retail chain, based in Portugal, with most of its profits coming from Poland) and Pirelli (Italian based, with emerging markets being the key profit driver). Whilst the overall peripheral exposure has stayed relatively constant, profits are now more internationally sourced.

Other portfolio activity has been more stock specific. Kabel Deutschland and Ziggo, both cable operators, were sold following successful bid approaches. Metro, the German retailer, and A.P. Moller-Maersk, the shipping conglomerate, were sold following strong share price performance and valuation targets being reached. New additions to the portfolio included Royal Dutch Shell (Dutch/UK oil and gas group), GAM (Swiss asset manager), KPN (Dutch telecom operator), Novartis (Swiss pharmaceutical group) and Outotec (Finnish minerals and metals processing technology group).

Outlook

Stock markets have moved ahead in anticipation of a recovery in profits in European companies. Whilst this is normal at this stage in an economic cycle, it does mean that aggregate valuations have now run slightly ahead of events. If European stock markets continue to appreciate in value, your portfolio is likely to see more of the rotation referred to above, disposing of what are considered to be overvalued stocks and reinvesting in stocks with a lower risk profile which are considered to offer better value. Unless valuations generally reach what we would consider to be over-inflated levels, we will continue to remain fully invested.

Directors' Statement of Principal Risks and Uncertainties

The important events that have occurred during the period under review and the key factors influencing the Financial Statements are set out in the Investment Manager's Review on pages 2 to 4. The principal factors that could impact the remaining six months of the financial year are also detailed in the Investment Manager's Review. Additional Risk Factors are set out on page 20.

The Board considers that the following are the principal risks associated with investing in the Company: investment and strategy risk, discount volatility risk, market risk (comprising interest rate risk, currency risk and price risk), liquidity risk, credit risk, gearing risk, regulatory risk, operational risk and other financial risk. These risks, and the way in which they are managed, are described in more detail under the heading "Principal risks and uncertainties" within the Strategic Report in the Company's Annual Report and Financial Statements for the year ended 30 September 2013. The Company's principal risks and uncertainties have not changed materially since the date of that report.
